Hi [REDACTED],

Thanks so much – and sorry for the slow reply. From the email chain I've attached, it sounds like it's possible [REDACTED] has already sent you an email approving. But if not, I'm attaching our travel memo-- perhaps we can just use the text from the memo if that's easier than endorsing the document.

Thanks for all of your help coordinating this trip, our whole team really appreciates it.

Best,

I think we, or me, missed this

I will have [REDACTED] send me an email saying something like this. Edit it for me.

The SDNY requests approval for travel by AUSA [REDACTED] to the U.K. from October xx to October Yu, 2020. This travel is required at this time as Ms. [REDACTED] will be conducting an interview of victim/witness in the case against Glaine Maxwell. The victim was a victim of Jeffrey Epstein. She will only talk to us person and it is necessary for us to get her statement on the record to preserve the government's right to use her at trial.

Please approve her travel to the U.K.

[REDACTED]

Acting United States Attorney.

Hi [REDACTED],

Do you happen to have the signed memo from [REDACTED]? I think that's what the email below is asking me for, but not exactly sure. Thanks! Hope you're doing well.
